Eli Lilly Internal Documents - Download ZyprexaKills.tar.gz

Saturday, January 13th, 2007 at 8:09 am by Rob Wipond

In the course of research for my upcoming articles in both Adbusters and Focus magazines, I found these documents. They are internal memos, emails and studies from Eli Lilly and Company, one of the world's largest pharmaceutical companies.

There are a lot of relatively uninteresting pages mixed into this large file (269 MB), but overall some of the documents do seem to indicate, exactly as the New York Times and others have written, that Lilly apparently was involved in illegal, possibly criminal activities by misleading doctors about side effects and appropriate uses for their sedating-antipsychotic Zyprexa (Olanzapine), currently the world's third best-selling drug. I consider it important background documentation for my readers, and critical for independent evaluation.

Currently, distribution and even to some extent discussion of these documents have been suppressed by an injunction from Eli Lilly in the United States. I found them using the Electronic Frontier Foundation's TOR anti-censorship stealth network.

As a Canadian journalist working in Canada, I feel it's important to make them easily accessible for public viewing, for the public good and people's health. I have particular concern and sympathy today for those people across Canada and around the world who are being forced to take Lilly's Zyprexa and other very dangerous drugs against their wills, victims of forced psychiatric interventions or inappropriate treatment in homes for the elderly. These documents help show how misguided forced psychiatric intervention really is, and how its methods tend to be more similar to chemical restraint and torture than to science or medicine. Further analysis, opinion and clarification about the memos will be forthcoming shortly in my articles. In the meantime, my thanks to the creators of the TOR network.

As of mid-Jan, there are some Bittorrent downloads of this file available — these will probably be much faster downloads than mine and will save me from having to pay for extra bandwidth, so I encourage you to try those first if you know your way around Bittorrent. Search on zyprexakills or ZyprexaKills.tar.gz either at BTJunkie or The Pirate Bay. Unfortunately, Isohunt seems to have had its plug temporarily pulled as I write this.

Open the files using an unzipping utility like Power Archiver.

I've been following the news regarding the leaked memos, found your website through a google search on "ZyprexaKills". Your website is now used as a reference in Wikipedia:

Totally cool.. I'd seen something about this elsewhere, think it was a commentary by David re the same.. My "fog" comes and goes so I missed it all the first go-round.. Being one who has to see things firsthand to "get" them, thanks to your inventiveness, now I will.. ☺

Thanks and Best wishes.. ☺
